Quality
starts with us.

We are a world-leading, transparent and independent certification scheme for wood pellets. We guarantee quality throughout the entire supply chain, from producer to end-user, we ensure that only the best pellets are used within your appliance.

Our pellets must meet a variety of specifications based on the most stringent of technical requirements. The ENplus® supply chain is controlled entirely by independent organisations, from certification to testing bodies; our third-party scheme ensures complete independence across the entire process. It is due to this that we are also able to tackle fraud cases and other complaints with the highest professionalism and confidence.

By strictly checking all of these details, we can guarantee that your pellet appliance performs at its best, meaning it remains hassle free and its longevity improved.

Using high quality pellets not only lowers your maintenance costs but it also helps to lower air emissions; ensuring we work towards building a more efficient and greener future.
